President's Message

Curtis Olafson

Holiday greetings and best wishes to all of you!

We are happy to bring you this edition of the "Fjalla Blað" to update you on the latest news. I would like to begin by saying thank you to all who made the 2004 Celebration such a great success! The support and attendance at all events was very rewarding to see and we received a lot of positive comments on the Celebration. We hope to continue that success in 2005 and beyond.

News Flash!!!! North Dakota Council on the Arts Iceland Project

Before I go into more detail about the 2005 Celebration, we are very pleased to announce our partnership in a very exciting project which has been launched and funded by the North Dakota Council on the Arts. This project should be of great interest to people of Icelandic descent everywhere, and this is certainly an honor and a privilege to have the North Dakota Council on the Arts featuring Icelandic culture, history and heritage in such a special way. Please be sure to read all the details concerning this project further on in the newsletter. This is a golden opportunity for everyone who is interested in folk arts and/or Icelandic culture to immerse themselves in both.

2005 Celebration

We have a lot of exciting plans to report for 2005, some of which is late breaking news. We are pleased to announce that we have not one, not two, but three choirs tentatively planning to perform at the 2005 Celebration!

- "Grundartangakórin" is a male choir with 18 members, mostly men who work at a ferrosilicon plant located at "Grundartangi" which is about 50 km from Reykjavik. They are planning to visit Canada and the US next year "to celebrate the choir's 25th anniversary and to explore some of the Icelandic settlements, in search of people and history."
- "Söngsveit Hveragerðis" is a mixed choir of about 35 singers from Hveragerði. Special guest soloist on the tour will be the well-known and highly respected tenor from the famous singing group "Alftagerðisbræður" Mr. Sigfús Pétursson.
- "Karlakór Selfoss" is a male choir with about 45 members, and has been performing since 1965. The choir has appeared in several foreign countries and has produced two CD's.

Play from Alberta

We are also pleased to announce that we have another exciting event tentatively scheduled for 2005. A group from Markerville, Alberta will be touring this summer producing a play entitled "A QUILT OF MANY CULTURES". They are planning to perform the play here during the Celebration weekend and will also make appearances in Gimli during the Islendingadagurinn, and in Foam Lake, Saskatchewan. The play synopsis they have provided is as follows:

Play synopsis

As Canada filled with immigrants, the country became like a patchwork quilt. "A Quilt of Many Cultures", so to speak. In that patchwork, there are incredible stories. This play tells the stories of that quilt and they sing its songs, 'A Prairie Opera'. They tell the story of the eight year old girl who traveled alone from Iceland to Manitoba with a note pinned to her dress explaining who she was, where she was going, and would the people along the way please help her get there. In so doing, thus she became a stalwart in the community. They tell the story of the German war orphan who immigrated to Canada at the age of 17, taught himself English using the "Readers Digest", took Honors English at university, and became the father of a silver medal winner in the Olympics. As a part of the set, they commissioned a quilt to be made. The quilt had a huge maple leaf in the center and was surrounded by patchworks of the flags of all the countries that supplied Canada with its original pioneers. They formed a 10 voice, three guitar, and one harmonica male chorus that they called "The Men of the Land" who provided musical interludes for the stories, singing our prairie songs and rejoicing in this country. The play has a cast of 25 volunteer actors and musicians from the little community.

Please make plans now to join us for the 2005 Deuce of August Celebration, July 29th, 30th, and 31st, 2005. Keep watching for future editions of Fjalla Blað and our website to keep up on the latest information for the Celebration weekend. Until next time.....Hvað er svo glatt sem góðra vina fundur?

INL of NA News

Raffle

The Icelandic National League of North America is conducting a fundraising raffle with some very interesting and exciting prizes. The drawing for the raffle will be held on January 16th, 2005. The tickets are $5/Canadian funds (US ICA members can consider sending $5/ticket in US funds) and can be ordered directly from the INL office. The contact information is:

Rosa Johnston, Executive Secretary, Icelandic National League, #103 - 94 1st Ave, Gimli, MB, Canada ROC 1B1
Phone: 204-642-5897 Fax: 204-642-9382 Email: inl@mts.net

The prize list of four separate prizes includes:

- A trip for two to Iceland, including airfare from Minneapolis, 2 nights free at the Hotel Borg, limousine transportation from the airport, and $1000.00 spending money. The 2 nights at the hotel does not mean you can only stay in Iceland for two days - the suggestion is that it could be the first and last nights in Iceland.
- A framed print by Cal Joli of Utah
- A complete set of Sagas (i.e. the 5 volume set in English).
- A 27" Toshiba TV

Please help support the great work being done by the INL of NA by ordering your tickets today!

George A. Freeman elected to Board of INL of NA

ICA member George A. Freeman has recently been elected to the Board of Directors of the Icelandic National League of North America as Regional Director for North Dakota/Minnesota. George is retired and lives in Grand Forks, and is a very active member of the Icelandic Communities Association. George regularly and faithfully travels from Grand Forks to attend ICA meetings. He has worked tirelessly as one of the founders in establishing and operating the Genealogy Center, which has been a great success during the 2003 and 2004 Deuce of August Celebrations. George joins two fellow ICA members in serving on the INL Executive Board-Lyle Hillman and Curtis Olafson both serve as Directors-at-Large.

Seasons Greetings

As the year comes to an end, I think it would be fitting to review some of the activities and accomplishments of the ICA for the past year.

In March the ICA and the Fargo-Moorhead Icelandic club CO-sponsored a Sunday afternoon program at the Empire Theater in Grand Forks. Valgeir Þórvaldsson and Wincie Jóhannsdóttir gave a presentation on their work at the ND. Exhibit at the Icelandic Emigration Center, followed by entertainment with Bill Holm and Anna Sigríður Helgadóttir.

In April, we met with Almar Grímsson, his wife Anna Björk and Guðríður Sigurdardóttir. Almar is the head of the INL in Iceland and also one of the tour leaders through here. He is very interested in strengthening the ties between the people of this area and the Icelandic people. Guðríður is the managing director of the Culture House in Reykjavik. This is also known as the National Center of Cultural Heritage. While their stay was short, it was a productive afternoon.

In May we received our bulk mailing permit. This will, in the long run save us considerable postage.

In June Jónas Þór led a group of his history students through the area. Several of us received e-mail messages from members of the tour group stating how much they enjoyed our communities and the hospitality they received while here.

In early July the ICA was the subject of an article in a magazine supplement that goes out with the daily papers nationwide such as "Parade", "American Profile", etc. As a result of this publicity we received quite a number of inquiries from all over plus some donations.

July 30th was the start of our Deuce of August weekend with a Friday night dance. If you were there you also could have had an excellent Walleye supper put on by the American Legion. By most accounts, it was a very successful weekend. There were a couple of small glitches that occurred and they will be corrected next year. The parade Saturday morning was very well attended with people lining the street from one end of town to the other. I walked down the street shortly before the parade started and was very pleasantly surprised by all the out of state license plates

I saw. I think most people would agree that seeing old friends and relatives who come for the Deuce is one of the main attractions. There are two events in which we are aware of the attendance figures- the dances had just short of a thousand tickets sold and the supper Saturday night had 425 people there. Speaking of the supper we can't thank Jón Friðjónsson and Icelandic USA enough for their generous donation of fish for the supper Saturday evening. We really appreciate your generosity!

In September the ICA and the North Dakota Council on the Arts entered into an agreement whereby the ICA would help NDCA with an ambitious and very interesting project involving an exchange of folk artists between the two countries. There is more information on this project elsewhere in the newsletter.

In closing, I would like to thank everyone for their support of the ICA this past year and hope that you will continue to support the ICA this coming year, as it looks like it can be another busy year.

From the Secretaries Desk

Loretta Bernhoft

Once again, we are thrilled to receive support from Icelandic USA, Inc. headquartered in Cambridge, Maryland. Mr. Jón Friðjónsson, Vice President of Icelandic USA, Inc was in contact with Leslie Geir, Vice President of the Icelandic Communities Association recently and expressed his regrets in response to an invitation to participate in our celebration this year. He did, however, repeat an offer of Icelandic fish for our International Supper on Saturday night. For those who attended that event, you know what a treat that fish was! We have had countless requests for that entrée to be offered once again. We wish to extend a sincere thank you to Icelandic USA, Inc. for their generous donation!! We served over 400 people at the International Fellowship Supper Saturday evening and the fish received rave reviews once again!

Thank you Mr. Friðjónsson and Icelandic USA, Inc.!

Course Offered in Iceland as Part of NDCA Icelandic Artistic Exchange Project

This course is sponsored, funded, and initiated by the North Dakota Council on the Arts, a state agency, in cooperation with the Icelandic Communities Association, Mountain, North Dakota. State Folklorist Troyd Geist is the primary instructor and coordinator. The class will be available for course credit through North Dakota State University and the University of Iceland.

Northern Lights: Folklore and Folk Art in North Dakota and Iceland – A Comparison

Course Dates: June 25-28, 2005; days when the class actually meets, four days.

Travel Dates: Registrants from the North Dakota/United States and Canada will fly out of Minneapolis on Icelandair the evening of June 23, 2005 arriving in Iceland on June 24 whereupon we travel to Hofos that same day. The return flight from Iceland will be the afternoon of June 29 with arrival in Minneapolis later that night. (There is a 5-hour time difference during Central Daylight Time)

Time: 8:30AM-3:30PM daily except June 27, the third day of class, when we have an all day fieldtrip.

Place: The Icelandic Emigration Center, Hofos, Iceland

Course Description:

This course seeks to compare and contrast the fascinating folklore and folk arts of North Dakota and Iceland. Relatively isolated and widely unknown to large parts of the world, North Dakota and Iceland are rich in folk traditions often defined by a deep relationship to starkly beautiful landscapes, severe weather, animals important to farming or ranching, and historical immigration. Both have traditional stories about specific geographic features; for example, trolls and troll cows turning to stone around the Skagafjordur area of Hofos, Iceland or a Dakotah (Sioux) woman who loved nature so much she turned to stone around Fort Ransom, North Dakota. Both have strong connections to horses and sheep and the traditions surrounding them such as saddle making, knitting, weaving, or the use of natural dyes to color wool. When the Vikings settled Iceland they erected stone piles to mark the way for people traveling from one place to another. When the pioneers moved across North Dakota they built similar monuments called "Stone Johnnies" to guide their way. Ukrainians and German-Russians who moved to North Dakota built homes out of sod. In Iceland stone and turf buildings were made.

Thus, the central questions are: 1) Between North Dakota and Iceland, how do broadly similar folk traditions framed by similar relationships to the land, weather, animals, and immigration compare and contrast? 2) What role and meaning do these traditions have in our cultures today? 3) How do they and can they continue to serve as an adaptive function in today's society? This class is open to the general public, university students of all majors, and teachers in both countries. It encourages greater interaction and understanding between Icelanders and people from North Dakota, a state with a large population of people of Icelandic descent.

Each day of the class many exceptional, award-winning, and nationally known folk artists and scholars, from both North Dakota and Iceland, will interact with class participants through demonstrations, presentations, and lectures. There will be a strong hands-on, participatory component. An all-day multiple-site fieldtrip will be taken on the third day of the class to visit additional folk artists/traditionalists. Presentations will include the Icelandic sagas, Dakotah (Sioux) storytelling, traditional foods, folk music, Viking-age poetic chants (rímur), using natural dyes, horse culture, and much more.

For teachers who participate, the course will challenge them to think about ways folklore and folk art can be used in the teaching of their subject areas. For example, how can physics and chemistry be taught through using plants to dye wool? How can history and social studies be illustrated through the building of stone monuments? How can English and Icelandic Language teachers incorporate traditional storytelling into their writing, reading, and speech curricula? How can the construction of a saddle or sod houses be used to teach math? North Dakota and Icelandic teachers will also be encouraged to establish e-mail and/or other ongoing contacts between their respective classes after the course has ended.

Costs for participants from North Dakota/United States and Canada: Between $1,700-$1,800 US Dollars. (Exact price to be set by early January 2005. The price includes registration, airfare from Minneapolis to Keflavik/Reykjavik, bus from Reykjavik to Hofsos, lodging for five nights in Hofsos, noon meal for the four days of the class, an evening meal in Hofsos the night before the course begins, a breakfast in Hofsos the morning after the course ends, exhibit fees, fieldtrip, university recording and credit fees, and course books/materials.)

Registration and receipt of full payment deadline for students from the United States of America and Canada: March 31, 2005. (Limited enrollment of 30 participants; 15 from North Dakota/United States and Canada and 15 from Iceland. Others interested can be placed on a waiting list.)

People interested in receiving more information or registering should contact Troyd Geist at tgeist@state.nd.us or by calling #701-293-3557 (between 8AM-5PM) or writing to the North Dakota Council on the Arts, 1600 E. Century Ave., Suite 6, Bismarck, ND 58503. Please include your name, address, phone number, and e-mail.

Genealogy Center*George Freeman*
Time for reflection and Plannin..... gfreeman@gra.midco.net

Many thanks to everyone that contributed to the Genealogy Center effort this year. This was our second year presenting the Genealogy Center and it continues to evolve. It was a great pleasure to have Nelson Gerrard of Arborg, Manitoba as our guest as well as Jen Holand representing the Snorri program and Claudia Pratt representing the Hjemkomst Center in Moorhead, MN.

While we had successes with new ideas at the Genealogy Center we had some problems as well. We had some problems with printers working on the network and we had difficulty getting the Hofsó database to work properly.

We will remedy those difficulties. The DSL internet access and wireless network worked well. Many thanks are due to Polar Communications of Park River for the DSL internet access.

There was considerable interest in the cemetery books and the new Pembina County Pioneer Daughter Biographies Book. I hope to have the book in print by the end of the year. The cemetery index for the 12 Icelandic cemeteries around Mountain was not complete but we had most of the books available. We will continue to work on these projects and they will be ready for next year.

Most of the queries we had at the Center were about ancestry in Iceland. Also there were questions about grave locations. Many people found biographies and genealogies in the Pembina County Pioneer Daughters Biographies. One lady left because we were so busy trying to find information for others. I would like it if that lady would contact me so I can help her.

Gary Olson of Fargo contributed his resources of NE Iceland. We were pleased to have him at the center. Pam Furstenau of Fargo showed up at the center with her laptop and by the end of the weekend we asked her to help next year. She has so much enthusiasm and was a great addition to the center. She is a niece to Curtis Olafson. We could use more help and if you think you may be interested in the genealogy work please contact us. Pam, Gary, and I have talked about having some training/coordinating sessions so we are better prepared to help people find their information.

Many thanks go to Shirley Olgeirson (Genealogy Committee Chair) at shirleyo@polarcomm.com. She managed to coordinate many of our activities while hosting the 'Big Yellow House' south of Mountain. Committee members and people that made the center work were: Loretta Bernhoft, Rosa Thorfinnson, Ingibjorg Johannesson, Rosemarie Myrdal, Emil Sigtryggsson, Dorothy Thomasson, John H. Johnson, and Jan Burns, Grafton. I apologize to those I have missed.

A Special News Flash!! Upham, ND, the town nearest the Mouse River Icelandic settlement in central ND, is planning their 100 year celebration in July 2005. They are gathering family history and pictures for a book they will be publishing next year. Please send information to Mary (Goodman) Lindstrom, RR1, Bantry, ND 58713. The book will be printed in Towner. There may be an e-mail address to send information to. Check our web site or contact me for the e-mail address later.

We had visitors from many states, Canada, and Iceland. We are beginning to plan for next year. The next newsletters will give more information. Keep an eye on our web site. <http://www.august2nd.com/genealogy.html>

ICA CELEBRATIONS COOKBOOK

Jeanne Halldorson

We regret to announce that we have not received enough recipes to publish our cookbook in time for Mother’s Day 2005. We are extending our deadline to March 31, 2005, in hopes that we can have the cookbooks available for the 2005 Celebration, July 29th thru 31st.

Please submit your family’s favorite special recipes. The ones you prepare for special occasions such as birthdays, holidays, picnics, church gathering, potlucks, parties, bake sales, and even that quiet dinner for two or a lazy breakfast in bed. The recipes DO NOT have to be Icelandic or ethnic. Any recipe will do.

Please send complete instructions on how to prepare your recipe, such as exact ingredient measurements, temperatures to cook at, and cooking times. Include your name, address and phone number so we can contact you if there are any questions.

Send your recipes to ICA Celebrations Cookbook, P.O. Box 63, Mountain, ND 58262-0063. Or you can e-mail them to me at jeannel@polarcomm.com. The sooner you send us your recipes, the sooner we can go to press. We're really looking forward to reviewing all of your recipes and trying our favorites. Thanks to those of you who have already sent in your recipes. They all sound wonderful.

Kitchen Korner

Submitted by Jeanne Halldorson

Hjónabandssæla (Wedded Bliss)

- 1 cup rolled oats
- 1 cup flour
- ½ cup loosely packed brown sugar
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup butter or margarine, softened
- ½ cup rhubarb jam

Preheat the oven to 375*. Mix all the ingredients, except the jam, in a bowl. The mixture should be crumbly, but soft. Reserve around ¼ of it for the topping and put the rest into a 7-inch tart pan, preferably with a removable bottom, and press it firmly down and up against the sides. Spread the jam evenly on the bottom and crumble the reserved dough over it. Bake for 25 minutes, or until dark golden brown.

Rhubarb or prune jam is the traditional filling for this tart, but any jam can be used. This recipe can easily be doubled and baked in a 9-inch pan.
